Jack's muddled up Christmas

Once upon a time, there was a boy called Jack. Jack had a dog named Toffee. He wished and wished for it to be Christmas; then finally Christmas came.

"It's come, it's come!" screamed Jack. "Finally, finally Christmas" he shouted. His mum and dad were very excited for Jack. To buy him a present which is a bike. His Mum and Dad were not bothered about the price, but he really wanted to have a great Christmas. After he woke up they opened their presents. Toffee ripped his present open and found a bone. Jack found a how to build a bike kit, suddenly he opened the box and asked his Dad to make the bike with him. Over in Egypt another boy called Jack opened the same present, then a portal appeared sucking both of the Jacks into a magical land...

...In the magical land there were trees made of marshmallow and the water was slush, the grass was candy canes and it smelt like peppermint. The clouds were candy floss and candy floss is very, very soft, blue berry flowers were red and red berry flowers were blue . There was a see-through house with someone waving to me, I ran to see them and I made a friend. When asked he said his name was Will, then he noticed he was actually the other Jack. Jack had got sucked in the portal with him. Eventually they had become friends. They worked together to get out of the world. On the horizon they saw an enormous sign saying EXIT from the magical land to earth. They began their journey in which they had to go through some lovely chocolate forests. In the chocolate forest there was a marshmallow parrot who was very kind to Jack and Jack who were completely shocked. They got to the exit but there was more than one door. They picked the first one and it lead to a candy floss cloud they ran back to the door. They chose the second door which lead to the bottom of the raspberry slush ocean. The Egyptian Jack thought it was delicious and the other Jack grabbed him and took him back to the door. The next door led to the mouth of a crocodile they ran back and very quickly shut the door. There was one more door left. They went through the last door and it led back to earth.

Finally, they were heading home. When they got back to earth they told their parents everything about the magical land . Their parents did not believe them but it was true. The two Jacks turned to each other and sighed "That was one muddled up Christmas".

The end.

Book Review

By Will

There are some extraordinary characters in this book. The naughty things that they do will make your mind blow! Don't copy them because they never get their own way and sometimes die!

I thought that it was a brilliant book. The characters were amazing and I hope David Walliams comes up with The World's Worst Children 3.

In this book there are some very cruel girls and some crazy boys. My favourite character is Spoilt Brad because he drowned in chocolate cake. It was his Birthday and he didn't have any friends so he had to pay people to come to his party. He had elephants dancing and made everyone wear headphones except him so only he could hear the music. When the day was over he had a pile of presents that was as big as mount Everest!

Does this sound fun? If it does then read the book. It is priced £7.49 on Amazon. So get it on your Christmas list!
