They have a learning difficulty or disability if they have:

- A significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others of the same age, or

What are the kinds of Special Educational Needs that Milverton Primary School provides for?

At Milverton Primary School we aim to ensure that all children, whether or not they have SEND, have access to a broad and balanced and relevant curriculum which is differentiated to meet their individual needs.

We aim to provide early identification, assessment and provision for any child who may have special educational needs or a disability and plan to enable all of our children to reach the highest levels of achievement of which they are capable and to optimise their self-esteem.

All staff to play a part in identifying SEND pupils and to take responsibility for recognising and addressing their individual needs and we encourage the whole school community to demonstrate a positive attitude towards SEND.

We strive to obtain an effective parent partnership in developing and implementing a joint learning approach at home and school. We seek and take into account, the views of the child and their family in planning, decision making and evaluating the process.

In line with this the school follows the SEND Code of Practice set out by the Department for Education / Department for Health which states four broad areas of need as:

Communication and Interaction
Cognition and Learning
Social, Emotional and Mental Health (includes behaviour issues)
Sensory and/or Physical needs

What policies for identifying children with SEND and assessing their needs are available in school?

The school has a number of policies written to ensure that the needs of all pupils at Milverton Primary School are met. These include the SEND policy, The accessibility plan, the Single Inclusion Equality Scheme and the More Able Gifted and Talented policy. These policies are available on the school website and upon request from the Inclusion Leader or Headteacher.

Teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of the pupils in their class and should be contacted in the first instance with regard to queries about provision made for specific pupils.

The member of staff responsible for overseeing provision for children with SEND in school is the Inclusion Leader (Laura Nicol) who works closely with the Head teacher (Matt Fisher) and SEND governor (Maggie Wagstaff) to ensure that policy and practice is developed and maintained.

What arrangements are made at Milverton Primary School for consulting children and parents of children with SEND and involving them in their child's education?

If a child is identified as not making progress or members of staff have any sustained concerns about an area of their development, a meeting will be arranged with the child's parents or carers at the earliest opportunity. This meeting will usually be led by the child's class teacher.

Parents and carers as well as pupils are seen as equal partners in the planning and assessment process associated with meeting the needs of pupils with SEND in school and are encouraged to participate in termly planning meetings to discuss the progress and next steps of pupils. Invitations to participate in these meetings will be sent by class teachers.

Class teachers will seek to gain the views of a child with SEND as part of their ongoing planning and assessment cycle within the classroom and act on these views where appropriate.

At Milverton Primary School what are the arrangements for assessing and reviewing children and young people's progress towards outcomes?

Children identified as having SEND are set specific targets that are personal to them, this usually happens termly. These targets will be addressed through whole class teaching and if appropriate through individual and/ or group support within school.

These targets are reviewed at least termly and the progress against them is monitored by the class teacher and Inclusion Leader and SLT.

Pupils and parents/ carers are partners in this process and the school actively seeks their contribution in the setting and review of these targets.

Education, Health and Care Needs Assessments

Where a request for statutory assessment (formerly referred to as a Statement of SEN) is made by a school to the LA, the child will have demonstrated significant cause for concern.

The Local Authority (LA) will seek evidence from the school that the child in question has been supported for a reasonable amount of time without successes and that a number of strategies have been put in place.

The LA will also need clear information about the child's progress over time, documentation relating to strategies in place to deal with the child's individual needs, including any special resources and arrangements that are put in place. Reports from any external agencies involved with that child will also be requested.

The LA will decide whether an Education, Health and Care Plan is necessary or whether the child's needs can be met through additional SEND support within school. The purpose of an EHC plan is to make special educational provision to meet the special educational needs of the child, to secure the best possible outcomes for them across education, health and social care and, as they get older, prepare them for adulthood.

As a school we will liaise with parents/carers, the child and any other professionals who may work with the child, throughout this process.

How does Milverton Primary School support children and young people in moving between phases of education and in preparing for adulthood?

Staff at Milverton Primary School work closely with children and their families to ensure that learning is matched to children's needs but also that it is relevant to their area of need, interests, ambitions and plans for the future.

Children are encouraged to try new things and to participate in experiences that are new to them.

At key transition points, staff at Milverton work closely with the child and their family and in partnership with other schools and professionals, to ensure that key information is passed on, and opportunities are taken to provide children with the skills that they need for the future. Children starting school in EYFS (Reception year) are part of a carefully planned induction process, which includes liaising closely with parents and previous nursery settings allowing the needs of all children to be considered.

What approach does Milverton Primary School take to teaching children and young people with SEND including adaptations made to the learning environment of children with SEND?

Children identified as having SEND will have their need met through various stages of support at school.

Within whole class lessons where teaching is tailored to meet the needs of all pupils, this will include matching questioning to a child's ability, providing differentiated materials and additional resources, use of adult support within the classroom and ongoing classroom management strategies to support a child or children.

A child with SEND may also participate in additional learning opportunities through Targeted Support sessions as part of a group or individually. Here targets are set by class teachers and learning opportunities provided to enable a child or group of children to achieve targets. These Targeted Support sessions are reviewed termly by teachers and the Leadership team during Pupil Progress meetings.

Where necessary the school will work with outside agencies or specialists to support the learning of a child with SEND.

The school benefits from support from a number of agencies including Specialist Teacher Service, Educational Psychology Service, School Health (COMPASS), School Counsellors, Children's Services and SENDIAS (KIDS). Where necessary and in consultation with relevant specialists, specific resources will be provided and physical adaptations needed to the child's learning environment will be made.

How does Milverton Primary School secure expertise among teachers to support children and young people with SEND?

Staff at Milverton Primary School are keen to develop their professional expertise and engage fully with training opportunities provided to them.

Regular timetabled Teaching Assistant meetings, staff meetings and INSET sessions are provided to ensure that all staff are up to date in their knowledge of national, local and school policy and practice.

The Inclusion Leader has a Masters Level award in SEND co-ordination.

In addition to relationships with the agencies mentioned above, the Inclusion Leader works with other local schools through the Leamington North Cluster to monitor and review school practice.

How does Milverton Primary School assess and evaluate the effectiveness of the provision they make for children with SEND?

The progress of all children, including those with SEND is monitored by class teachers as part of their ongoing assessments, which feeds into planning.

Focussed Pupil Progress meetings attended by teachers and members of the Senior Leadership Team occur termly. Here a child's progress and attainment is considered, alongside achievement in Targeted Support sessions. Information shared at these meetings is used to plan future support.

The Inclusion Leader provides information about the progress of pupils and groups of pupils to the school Governing Body through attendance at meetings and through the SEND Link Governor.

How does Milverton Primary School enable children with SEND to have access to facilities and extra-curricular activity available to all children in the setting?

All children are encouraged to participate in additional opportunities at school including extra-curricular provision.

Where a barrier to participation is present, school staff will work with a child and their family alongside relevant specialists, to make arrangements for this to be overcome wherever possible.

Financial support is available to ensure that this is not a barrier to participation and the school fund and Pupil Premium Funding is used to support children and families in many instances.

How does Milverton Primary School support and improve emotional and social development, including extra pastoral support arrangements for listening to the views of children with SEND and measures to prevent bullying?

The views of children and families at Milverton Primary School are important to ensure a full, relevant and balanced education is provided to all pupils.

There are opportunities for all pupils to participate in decision making activities within school including the School Council. SEND is not a barrier to involvement in these opportunities and additional support is provided if necessary.

The school employs a school counsellor who works in school on a weekly basis to support individuals who require additional support in any area of their social or emotional development.

The whole school participates in an annual Anti-Bullying week, usually held in November.

All children during the year take part in lessons developed by Warwickshire's Taking Care Scheme. The Taking Care Project "..helps us learn about empowerment, communication, self-esteem and other life skills so we can prevent abuse, reduce violence and promote life enhancing, rather than life depleting, experiences."

The school also invests in physical resources to support pupils with emotional and social needs, such as journals and worry-dolls, which may be supported with Teaching Assistant time and in Nurture groups.

What are the arrangements for handling complaints from parents of children with SEND about the provision made at the school?

If a member of the school community including a parent or carer of a child with SEND has concerns about the provision made for their child they should initially speak to the child's class teacher.

If the concerns are not appropriately managed at this stage the Inclusion Leader should be consulted and thereafter the Head teacher.

If concerns are still not managed effectively the SEND Governor should be contacted through the school office and thereafter the Chair of Governors.
